Terminal ePayment Exception Report

Last Modified on 09/21/2021 7:57 pm EDT

The Terminal ePayment Exception Report displays a listing of all EMV (chip credit card) payments, made in the last 7 days, that have not been linked to a Family record. This report can be found under the Transactions (menu) > Transaction Reports.

When you process a terminal EMV payment, part of the process involves linking the terminal payment to a payment in the family's Jackrabbit account. Although unlikely, it is possible to get distracted while processing an EMV payment and forget to link the terminal payment to the payment in the Family record (steps #4-7 in Process an EMV Chip Card Payment in Jackrabbit). This is the tool to help you find and correct those unlinked terminal payments.

Unlinked payments are only displayed on this report for 7 days. It is very important to review this report frequently and link any payments as soon as you see them.

To link terminal payments displayed in the report you will need to know which family's account the payment belongs on; the Terminal ePayment Exception Report does not display a family name. This is because the payment was never linked to a family and Jackrabbit does not know who it belongs to.

If you are not certain which family the payment belongs to you can use the Family ePayment Listing Report to search for the last 4 digits of the card number.

Link Terminal Payments on the Exception Report

- 1. Click on the magnifying glass icon to search for the Family record.
- 2. Enter the family name to search and select and click the Pay button. This will drop down information for the family (contacts, students, and last 5 unpaid fees).
- 3. Confirm the family and click the Pay button.
